

Urothelial Carcinoma (Bladder Cancer) Patients Needed For Market Research

We are currently conducting an in-depth market research study on the topic of Urothelial Carcinoma, a type of bladder cancer. We are inviting people who are living with Urothelial Carcinoma (UC) or their caregivers to participate in online research. If you qualify, you will be paid for your participation upon completion of the research study.

The research involves a 90-minute online web interview on a video platform (on a computer with internet and webcam). This platform allows us to show you documents online and have a discussion with the interviewer at the same time. We ask you to complete a small (30minute) homework assignment prior to the interview.

To take part, you will be required to have access to a computer with high-speed internet connection, and a mobile or landline phone. Your responses are confidential and there will be no follow-up to sell you anything.

There is no medical treatment being provided or offered as part of this study and this is not a clinical trial.
